

Mission Success: Tips & Tricks

Answering Mission Questions

Follow The Instructions

- Stick to the Details: If asked to select every product present, don't neglect any clearly present on the shelf. Provide more than one word answers when necessary. Always check for the specific product or display mentioned - we use this every time for approval!
- Precision Matters: Include necessary details, like decimals in prices.

Make Sure It Makes Sense

- Realistic Responses: If asked to time how long you waited in line, ensure your answer reflects reality—paying in 3 seconds isn't possible, even with no line!

Provide Consistent Data

- Align Your Photos with Your Answers: Ensure your answers match what's shown in your photos. Our team checks for consistency, so mismatched information will result in your mission being rejected.

Add Any Important Details

- Explain Special Circumstances: If something prevents you from completing the mission perfectly, let us know in the comments. We include a space for that at the end.

Capture Perfect Photos

Product or Display Photos

- Clear and Crisp: Blurry photos can cause your mission to be refused. Check the description and make sure you're in the right area.
- Frame it Right: Use the "all-four-corners" rule to ensure nothing important is cut off in the shot. With a little practice, you'll be a pro in no time!

Receipt Photos

- Capture Everything: Place the receipt on a flat surface, making sure to get all essential details like items purchased, total amount, date, time, store name, and transaction info.
- Focus First: Ensure your camera focuses before snapping the photo. If you're offered an e-receipt, request a physical one for the mission.

A Foolproof Submission

- Check and Double-Check: Review your answers and photos. Ensure your answers are backed up by your photos—if you say there's no Brand X soda on the shelf but it's in your photo, your mission will be rejected.
- Crisp Photos, Always: We need clear, sharp images to validate your answers.

Keep these tips in mind as you follow the mission instructions and don't forget to take your time.
Happy Earning!
